Track and Field Day

We are thrilled to begin our Reading Celebration, 'Wild About Reading'! Teachers have been collaborating for weeks to make this an engaging and enriching opportunity for all students. This means we need YOU also to help support your child in his/her reading goals! While we will be emphasizing reading at school and celebrating the work they do here, reading at home is a vital part of this celebration of literacy as well. If anyone is willing or able to come in and read with students, we always appreciate the support! Parents, have extra time on your lunch break? Let your child's teacher know that you are stopping by to read a book! Ten minutes of your day can go a long way!

We will kick off our Reading Celebration with Mr. Beddow and Mrs. Judisch serving 'Green Eggs and Ham' on Monday morning, with Superintendent Beddow 'performing' a rousing rendition of the book from Dr. Seuss himself. All of the staff is working together and having fun to decorate the halls to make this month extra special for everyone. Come check it out!

In other news, we are working really hard to ensure our calendar is updated on the school district website. You can see specific Meadowlark Events by toggling on the top right corner to see just our events. As always, if at any point you have a question about something or see something missing, please let us know!

Wild About Reading Open House - March 26th

Art Auction, Book Fair & Classroom Events will take place from 4:00pm - 6:30pm
Auction Winners will be announced at 6:35pm.

We plan on having funds go toward a future art installation for the playground! Teachers will have a variety of literacy and learning activities in the classroom, including but not limited to literacy games, student portfolios, 3rd Grade Annual Country Report Presentations, and more! Treats will be served in the gymnasium for our Art Auction bidders and families!
